Moishe House 2019 Annual Report

At Moishe House, a key part of our DNA is to constantly revisit our programs, strategy and implementation, surfacing questions about our impact, reach and future. Are we creating the best opportunities for Jewish young adults to engage with each other? Are we providing the right kinds of support as these emerging leaders build their own Jewish communities? Are we playing an active enough role in the larger Jewish landscape as we all work toward a common future? Through this spirit of never-ending exploration, we find new ways to rise to the challenge of empowering Jewish 20-somethings around the world to create Jewish life as they envision it.

We invite you to join us in exploring some of our most pressing questions from the past year. We don't have all the answers yet, but what we do have is the framework to continue to explore and innovate and adapt to the next generation's needs as we help them build Jewish experiences and communities that inspire them each day. Thank you for being an important part of this journey.

DAVID CYGELMAN
Founder & Chief Executive Officer

How do we make Jewish learning accessible?

Although Jewish learning has been a core part of Moishe House's culture for more than a decade, in 2019, we explored how to deepen our efforts and make Jewish learning experiences accessible to even more young adults around the world.

"We now provide the opportunity for one-to-one Jewish learning to every staff member of Moishe House and in 2019, we extended this gift to the Board of Directors...to be a Jewish organization, we must utilize Jewish thought and wisdom in how we make decisions, know which direction to go in and determine how we best serve one another."

- "Transitioning from an Organization Doing Jewish Work to a Jewish Organization"
by David Cygielman, Moishe House Founder & CEO

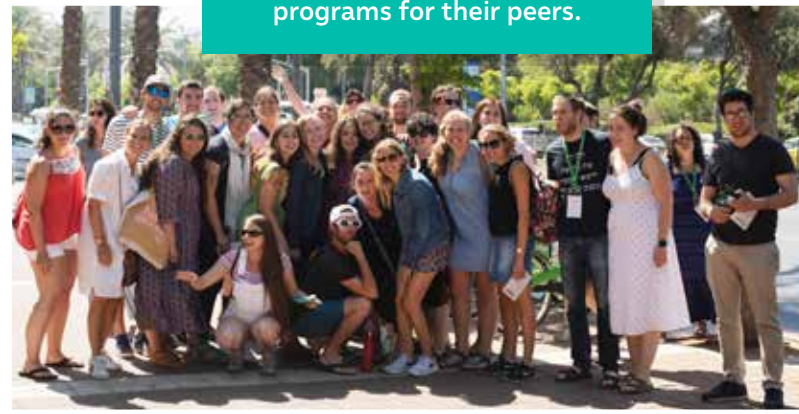

"At Moishe House, the curriculum is focused on bringing Judaism into the now, and identifying how it is relevant to you and how you want to celebrate it. My wife and I now have our Seattle mishpachah, an intentional, effortful community of friends that I created through Moishe House programming in Seattle."

- Nathan Wasserman, 27
Moishe House Seattle alumnus, MHWOW host, Peer-Led Retreat facilitator

How can we encourage Jewish young adults to bring Israel into their homes?

This was our second year of 4HQ: An Experimental Master class, a partnership with Makom. Through 4HQ, participants engage in an intensive trip to Israel and receive resources and support to then create meaningful Israel-related programming for their peers back home.

Last summer, a new cohort of

community builders participated in a week-long immersive and exploratory trip to Israel. Each participant is expected to host five Israel-related programs for their peers.

"...the Moishe House and Makom staff and educators put together a truly unforgettable experience with a very special group of participants which is sure to serve its purpose of bringing back the rich inspiration and constructive conversation to our local Moishe House communities."

- Shmuel Morgenstein, 28 Moishe House Baltimore alumnus, MHWOW host, 4HQ Cohort 2 participant

How can we inspire young adults to participate in Jewish philanthropy?

The annual WE ARE Campaign helps Jewish young adults give back philanthropically. Through one month of peer-driven fundraising efforts we invite Moishe House community builders, community members and their personal networks to make a meaningful gift to the organization that means so much to them throughout the year.

WE ARE

In its most successful year yet, the 2019 WE ARE fundraising campaign raised

$160,821

through 2,836
donations

"Moishe House's mission is so important and meaningful to help our community grow. I want to show my appreciation for their efforts to support Jewish community engagement."

- Madison Sabbath, 23
Moishe House Detroit - Detroit City community member and WE ARE donor

How do we train young adults to be Jewish leaders?

We've learned that in order for Jewish young adults to build the Jewish world they envision, they need the training and space to grow and connect to a network of their peers from different places and backgrounds. Once they're back in their home communities, they need financial support and guidance from staff and mentors to turn their learning into action through meaningful experiences for their peers.

109
Jewish young adults participated in three Retreat-Making Trainings, learning the ins and outs of creating their own Jewish Learning Retreat based on the topics that inspire them.

340
Moishe House community builders attended one of four Resident Training Conferences:

North American Training Conference	International Training Conference	Russian-Speaking Jews' Training Conference	Latin American Training Conference
------------------------------------	-----------------------------------	--	------------------------------------

"Moishe House's support strengthens the confidence of Jewish leaders. It shows that our actions are valuable, our ideas are important and it gives the motivation to continue to create and come up with new interesting projects that show our personality."

- Ekateryna Karleshtein, 28
Moishe House Kyiv resident, Peer-Led Retreat facilitator

How do we continue to evolve for the next generation of Jewish 20-somethings?

The landscape of Jewish young adult engagement is constantly changing, and we want to be at the forefront of that evolution. In 2019, we partnered with a researcher in the field to author “The Shift: A Discussion on Welcoming and Engaging Gen Z,” an analysis of the members of Generation Z, who are entering the Moishe House demographic right now and who have markedly different values and behaviors than prior generations. This past year we also launched the Innovation Engine, a new initiative which is dedicated to identifying new opportunities for Jewish identity exploration.

Young adults today are more entrepreneurial than any prior generation and see themselves as “culture creators”.

“The Shift” identified four key themes to inform the efforts of people and organizations, like us, who work with members of Generation Z:

AUTHENTICITY

Clarification and accurate communication of organizational identity and values

AFFILIATION

New ways of understanding loyalty and structuring membership

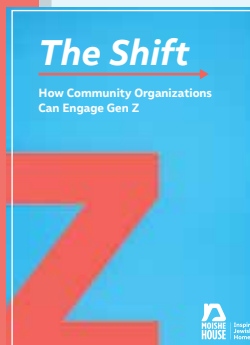

GATHERING

Immersive, in-person gatherings and spaces curated for wellbeing

WELLBEING

Cultivation of emotional, mental, spiritual and physical wellness

“The wisdom and resources of existing institutions can benefit us all...The challenge: dusting off what’s stale, getting unstuck, and delivering those assets in a relevant, inclusive and accessible way in partnership with the next generation.”

by Jordan Fruchtman and Danya Shults

What’s next in 2020?

Thank you for playing a role in shaping these conversations in 2019 and framing how we will continue to meet the needs of Jewish young adults around the world. We’re excited for what’s next and are grateful for your continued support as we create new opportunities together for Jewish peer-led engagement. In 2020, we look forward to:

- LAUNCHING new Moishe Houses and Moishe Pods.
- EMPOWERING young adults to be the creators of their own Jewish communities.
- INCREASING access to meaningful Jewish education experiences.
- INNOVATING AND EXPERIMENTING with new program models.
- DEMONSTRATING gratitude to the thousands of community builders and supporters who make Moishe House a reality.
